Clinical Information Systems: A Framework for Reaching the Vision

by Carol S. Bickford Health Information Technology: Where We Stand And Where We Need To Go selecting and implementing and using electronic health records in the clinical HHS and the Administration have laid out a framework to get to better vision – that we are within reach of every American having access to their health information. These nurse colleagues also have expert skills in advanced systems implementation. Clinical Information Systems: A Framework for Reaching the Vision. Biomedical Informatics: Computer Applications in Health Care and...